Upcoming Sunday Services

Services at 10:30 a.m.

June 4: Make 'Em Laugh

Rev. Elena Rose Vera, Worship Leader

Humor brings us together, keeps us upbeat, and reminds us that even when life is absurd we can make it through the day in good spirits. Join Rev. Elena Vera and special guest musicians, the Marylou's Apartment jazz band, for a Sunday morning that reminds us how good it is to laugh together. Bring your worst puns.

June 11: Brecht, Bacteria, and the Biosphere

Joanna Foley, Lay Worship Leader

The Conspiracy of Venus is a 30-woman vocal ensemble which creates and shares music for social and political impact. They were founded in 2007 as the sister group to the all-male Conspiracy of Beards which has performed the music of Leonard Cohen twice at BFUU.

Under the artistic direction of Joyce Todd McBride, Conspiracy of Venus speaks out through its music about political issues from environmentalism to feminism.

This service will feature songs interspersed with readings. Excerpts from James Lovelock, Lynn Margulis, and Bertolt Brecht will be included. Their music resonates strongly with the UU Seventh Principle.

June 18: Fathers Are Men, Too

Rev. Marsh Agobert, Worship Leader

In continuing our conversation re unbecoming someone else's child, we'll take a look at one more parent. This time we'll look at fathers and take into consideration the broad reality that...

Fathers are men.

What makes men the way they are?

June 25: How the US Supreme Court Stood Up on the Side of Love

Rev. Dr. Carrie Knowles, Worship Leader

Two years ago tomorrow, the Supreme Court's decision upheld the right to gay marriage throughout the United States. Rev. Dr. Carrie Knowles, a "recovering attorney," reviews the court's stance, the values it affirms, and the healing spiritual resonance we celebrate.

Please note also that Rev. Carrie will meet with visitors and prospective members of BFUU in the lobby after the service, from 12:15 to 1:15PM.

"Rock & Reel" Irish Dance Benefit Raises $1,163 for Standing Rock

On April 29, 2017, BFUU held an Irish dance to raise funds for Standing Rock's legal defense expenses.

The successful benefit event was sponsored by the Social Justice

Committee, included a special performance of Native American music and dance, and raised $1,163 that was sent to Earthjustice, the legal group that is representing the Standing

Rock Sioux tribe in the current court battles against the DAPL oil pipeline over concerns of water quality since the pipeline crosses the river so close to Standing Rock. Lead organizer Susan T. Mashiyama says that it was only possible because so many folks came together to help make it happen. Many thanks to: 31 volunteers from BFUU and the Irish music and dance community; local stores whose food donations supplemented the wonderful potluck; and of course thank you to all the members and friends of the Fellowship who support BFUU and make it possible for us to have the very buildings where it was held!

Volunteers:

BFUU finds the social justice roots of holidays

Mother's Day can be about more than cards and flowers for one's own mother. This year BFUU gave a nod to one of its social justice roots—Julia Ward Howe's ringing call in the 1870s for women to unite for world peace. Her "Mother's Prayer for Peace" was read in unison in the service on Sunday, May 14 by Arlo and Frida Chambers and Ana Paikea Hwang Melcher. Another social justice root for this holiday was Anna Jarvis' late 19th century campaign to honor her mother, "Mother" Jarvis, a community organizer around environmental health for marginalized Appalachian communities. BFUU decided to honor the health advocacy efforts of Healthy Black Families in Berkeley after an outreach visit to the group and a conversation with its founder, Dr. Vicki Alexander. BFUU donated the Mother's Day collection plate to support Healthy Black Families. The homily for the service, Nanci Armstrong-Temple's essay "Picking Straw Out of Velcro," (excerpt below) drew connections between what individual mothers do and what the community should do for the collective wellbeing of parents and their children. The slogan "It takes a village to raise a child" is more relevant than ever when applied to the current living conditions of parents and children in the East Bay.

This was the second holiday that BFUU re-imagined and found meaningful ways to commemorate. Following a recommendation on the UUA website, Valentine's Day was honored as a social justice holiday with a focus on love for the community, not just for one's individual sweetie. It became the occasion for a benefit dance party, "Dancing on the Side of Love." The event honored the social justice work of the Pacific Center, a local social service agency serving the LGBTQI community since the 1970s. Guests from the Pacific Center shared in the fun, food, and fellowship and a portion of the proceeds. This deeper view of Valentine's Day harked back to a legend that Bishop Valentine was executed for marrying couples of whom the authorities did not approve. Sounds familiar, doesn't it?

Joanna Foley

Picking Straw Out of Velcro

"Most years we try to make it to the Full Belly Farm Hoes Down Festival. My whole Bay Area family attended the 25th Anniversary of this organic farm that boasts a full-time, year-round staff of 60 farm workers, all of whom earn a living wage and have health care coverage. It was full of games and activities and vendors and food and performers and tons and tons of people.

And they also had a giant straw fort that the kids could climb onto, into, and around.

I'm allergic to straw, so I'm incredibly grateful that my kids were old enough that I didn't feel compelled to climb through the fort with them. And because I went with my amazing mother in law, I also didn't have to brave the Sudan grass maze, which, it turns out, I'm also allergic to.

But the combination of straw, grass, the creek, the slide into mud (which I never actually saw but did see evidence of when my children returned from it dripping and beaming) and the tennis shoes they were wearing (I'd never been before, so I had no idea they'd need both bathing suits and water shoes) meant that we brought a lot of straw and grass and mud home.

The girls sweet dad managed to wash the shoes and get them dry. I got to take the time to pick the grass and straw from not only the Velcro but from the inside of the shoes that might as well be but isn't quite Velcro.

This one job, that will go unnoticed in the grand scheme of life ..."

The baby owl on the picnic table
hunched away from us
trying to disappear.

We stared and stared.

2017 Pledge Dinner!

Hello, Hello, Hello all you wonderful people.....

What a great time we had on May 6th at the Pledge Dinner Dance. I would like to thank all of those who were able to attend. Food was provided by Market Hall Caterers and great music by Kool with Class. Everyone was up on the dance floor, was great fun!

This year's theme was Sankofa. "Sankofa" teaches us that we must go back to our roots in order to move forward. That is, we should reach back and gather the best of what our past has to teach us, so that we can achieve our full potential as we move forward. Whatever we have lost, forgotten, forgone or been stripped of, can be reclaimed, revived, preserved and perpetuated.

Our ministers, Rev. Carrie, Rev. Elena and Rev. Marsh, gave a very inspiring and enlightening presentation, in which those in attendance were asked to fire questions at them. Quite entertaining, I must say.

A short comedy skit was performed by our very own Susan Mashiyama and Kathy Riehle. It was cute and very funny!

The whole event was MC'd by Doug Chambers. Thanks Doug! What a great job you did; you sure had them laughing with the jokes.

We received many pledge renewals and had 3 new members join the Fellowship that night. How wonderful!

Warmly,
Kathy Riehle, Stewardship Chair

Strangers swarm over artifacts of lives that ended
Musty rooms filled with old furnishings scattered dishes and kitchen utensils
the smell of death permeates.

Other strangers in aprons collect money
a framed photograph here
a bedspread there
an iron wrench, a decorative vase.

Dark, dank garage a jumble of tools shelves, parts and pieces in disarray
dingy dirt floor of basement overhead pipes wrapped in decaying sheaths airless, moldy space propels me outward.

Inside the house a bedroom full of pink clothing and pillows
another piled with manuscripts
papers, books, an old LC Smith typewriter like the one my grandfather used in the 1930s.

Whispers, vestiges, artifacts
mementos of lives lived and lives ended

You may have noticed a few new things around the Hall. There's a bench permanently placed next to the front stairs where those waiting for rides can wait comfortably. The ramp has been repaired & repainted, rooting out all the rot to keep us safe. And there are several potted "plants" in the corners of the stage, replacing the shoji screens.

Several of our regular renters are taking extended breaks during the summer, so there will be a bit more availability in the Hall. And Indivisible Berkeley continues to have up to 3 meetings in a week at BFUU. This is the political grassroots group that has taken the nation by storm. For more information on their work, go to <https://www.indivisibleguide.com/>

In the meantime, enjoy the beautiful weather & gardens in our neighborhood. I'm looking forward to a lovely summer in Berkeley!

All the best,

Deborah Hamouris, Event Space Coordinator

Transition Berkeley Presents: Film & Discussion

"DEAR GOVERNOR BROWN: STOP DRILLING CALIFORNIA"

Thursday, June 1 at 6:30 PM refreshments, 7-9 PM program, in Fellowship Hall – 1924 Cedar St.

Learn the sobering facts about oil production in California and the damage it's doing to families, agriculture, our water and environment. Explore ways we can work together to challenge our Governor to be consistent in his environmental policies. We'll watch a short film called DEAR GOVERNOR BROWN, STOP DRILLING CALIFORNIA. The discussion afterward features representatives from Food and Water Watch, a leader in the anti-fracking movement, and several other organizations concerned about fracking in California. We'll close out the evening with a postcard writing campaign.

Bring healthy vegetarian snacks or a refreshment to share for meet and greet at 6:30. The program begins at 7:00 pm. This event is sponsored by: Transition Berkeley, San Francisco Bay Chapter, Sierra Club and BFUU Social Justice Committee.

Suggested Donation: $5-20 to cover event costs. No one turned away for lack of funds!

Bring: A healthy vegetarian snack to share at 6:30 pm if you like!

Learn to expand your vision of what meaningful work you can accomplish during the next 30 years. In this very interactive class, the first part will be about exploring your true work, rest, play, study, and developing your intuitive skills to assist in decision making and aging well. The second part provides you with practical guidance in making and implementing a plan for the near and long term. You begin with your passion and skills and develop them for furthering work or starting new kinds of work. You will consult with other students through appreciative inquiry techniques to consider a wider variety of possibilities. [Note - you can add into the class even if you miss the first session.]
